

New CD released this month: Quietly There

The new album should be in my hands by November 20! It's been about a year in the making, produced by Randy Green with marvelous contributions from great guest musicians, and I couldn't be happier with the results. It contains thirteen originals plus my version of Lennon/McCartney's Eleanor Rigby. See my Web site (www.tracyjanecomer.com) for details or to order, or to listen! Sales are now open by mail order and will be available on-line and at selected retail outlets by early December.

[Maybe there are some music lovers on your Christmas list???? If you use the mail order form on my site I will fill the order personally and can sign the CD for the recipient. The same is true for any other recordings you order by mail.]

Double honors received from Song of the Year International Songwriting Contest

I was recently honored twice by the Song of the Year International Songwriting Contest for two songs from the Second Wind album!

The song "A Father's Lament (Clementine)," with beautiful lyrics by Madisonian Arvid Berge, was a Finalist in September in the Folk category, and the song "The Heart Remembers" received an Honorable Mention in August in the Folk category. Second Wind was my debut album and was nominated as "Best Acoustic Album" by the Madison Area Music Awards.

Feature article coming December 1 in Midwest Folk magazine

A feature article/interview on yours truly will be published in the upcoming quarterly issue of Midwest Folk magazine (due out December 1). This is a great publication with performer interviews and article about venues, plus other insights into today's folk music. Subscriptions are very reasonably priced. See www.midwestfolk.com for more...you can even request a sample issue! [Another idea for the music lovers on your Christmas list?]
